CLINIC

Our committee members have been involved in a number of presentations surrounding International Women's Day and our Principal Solicitor was also honoured to be awarded the Eva Bacon Award by the IWD Meanjin committee in Queensland, although unable to make it to Brisbane for the event. Links to the various presentations and events are listed over the page.

Casework

In the Tasmanian Case of Jessica Hoyle v Tasmanian Anti-Discrimination Commissioner, we are defending the right of lesbians to hold events that exclude males. The final hearing was adjourned awaiting a decision of the High Court clarifying the jurisdictional powers of the Tribunal (more details here).

Meanwhile we are instructed by Sall Grover, as CEO of Giggle for Girls Pty Ltd in respect to a discrimination claim to the Australian Human Rights Commission (AHRC) brought by Roxanne Tickle, who identifies as a trans woman. Giggle provides a networking app exclusively for women and girls and the complaint relates to Tickle's exclusion from the app. This case has received some local media coverage and interest from overseas commentators (see here).

Although our Women's Court Support Service continues to be suspended from operation in the Sydney Family Court, we continue our work supporting mothers in other ways. The international Women's Coalition articulates the issues very well and we recommend people have a look at their work. We have also been recruited to join the international Hague Mother's project recently established by FiLiA.
